The NUST Library Digital Collections under the Collection Management Section of the Library deals with the preservation of digital content produced by or for the Namibia University of Science and Technology (NUST). The content is collected and preserved in form of digital documents, audio, video and images. The library is pleased to share access to these precious collections as follows:

Digital Collections

Only available on the intranet, the digital collections contains a number of ready reference materials such as NUST documents/reports, Government Gazettes, NUST events photos and more. This collection can be explored at: <http://digitalcollections.nust.na/greenstone3/library>

Past Examination Papers

This collection consists of past examination papers, as old as 5 years. This is a useful collection for students in preparations for their examination. This can be viewed at: <http://exampapers.nust.na:8080/greenstone3/library/collection/exampape/page/about>

Namibia Digital Archives (DNA)

The DNA collection or project was a co-operative project between the Utah-Valley University, the National Archives of Namibia and the then Polytechnic of Namibia. The digital archive provides online public access to rich resources that reflects the diversity and cultural stories of Namibian people and to capture these narratives before they disappear with those who hold them such the elderly people who know many traditions and cultures. Other collections such as the Land Conference 1991, 2018, Edda Schoedder and Otilie Nietzsche-Reiter archives are also featured on the DNA website. This can be viewed at: <http://dna.nust.na:8080/greenstone3/library>

Special Collections

The special collection came about as the various collaborative projects between various NUST Departments and the library. The collection comprises of collaborative projects such as COVID-19 related content, Namibian Soil collection research, Protect-Preserve-Promote Indigenous Culture (P3ICL), UNESCO collection and Land Conference 1991, 2018. <http://specialcollections.nust.na:8080/greenstone3/library>
